ADJUTANT GENERAL'S REPORT, 1881.

HEADQUARTERS KENTUCKY STATE GUARD,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
FRANKFORT, October 31st, 1881. }

HON. LUKE P. BLACKBURN, Governor:

SIR: I have the honor to make and submit the following report:

The Kentucky State Guard.

INFANTRY.—Since my last official report, the term of enlistment has, in a large proportion of the State Guard, expired. In some cases there has been no disposition to reorganize. This is notably so with the first battalion, known as the Louisville Legion. This command has been in an unhealthy condition for some time past, and whilst laboring under discontent, produced by a number of causes, some of which amounted to alleged grievances, about sixty per cent. of all the members of the four Infantry Companies proper were entitled to be discharged in June last, and were honorably mustered out of the service. These have been very good companies, composed of excellent material, and well officered, and their retention in the service is desirable. Shortly before the men were to be mustered out, steps were taken to reorganize, in fact, to expand the battalion to the proportions of a regiment. I am not accurately advised of the present condition of the command, having had no reports from it since 31st March last, but from the best information attainable, nothing has been done except to elect regimental officers. The better plan is to muster out, and proceed to reorganize anew.

This course, when resorted to, has been generally successful, and if the Companies A, B, C, and D, of this command, had been mustered out in a body, and the officers authorized to re-form their companies, I believe it would have been done long ago. Even under the present status it can be done. Only a little energy is necessary. The need of such a force in the city is recognized by all thoughtful men, and the material is abundant.

The Blackburn Guards of Midway are in a similar state of disintegration, owing mainly, as I understand, from neglect on the part of officers, especially the resignation of Captain Viley. The company is composed of first-rate young men, is handsomely uniformed, and well armed. It only needs a commander. The Butler Guards, of Carrollton, having served out the full term of their enlistment, were mustered out on the 8th day of August last, and arms, &c., returned.

At other places the State Guard is in good condition, both as to discipline and morale, and is equipped ready for active service at any time.

Artillery and Cavalry.

On account of the improvement in small arms, their accuracy, range, and rapidity of fire, flexibility and elasticity of Infantry lines, it has been held by many practical military men that Artillery and Cavalry, in State service, should be discouraged. Another argument against these arms is their cost as compared to Infantry, and the great length of time required to attain proficiency. The weight of authority, however, is in favor of both Artillery and Cavalry, but in proportions less than formerly. It seems to be conceded that there should be attached to each Brigade of Infantry one four- or six-gun Battery of Light Artillery, and one troop of Cavalry with a maximum of one hundred and twenty-five men.

The Artillery drill is much more elaborate than that of Infantry, and requires more time by officers and men. Take, for instance, the Manual of the Piece. In Infantry, one man is the unit, whereas, in Artillery, there is a number of men, each performing a separate part. In many other respects the service is more complex, requiring more time and closer application to master its details. We have only one four-gun Light Battery—Battery "A" Louisville Light Artillery. This company is now serving its second term of enlistment, having re-organized and re-elected its former commander, Captain E. H. Moise. Its drill is superb. I doubt if it is excelled in that respect by any similar organization in any of the States, and its character as a military command is unsurpassed. I only render honor to whom honor is due, by stating that in a competitive drill at Nashville, Tennessee, in the month of May last, a section of this Battery carried off the capital prize over picked sections from St. Louis, New Orleans, and, I believe, Nashville, and also took first prize for target shooting. This success was achieved under the command of 1st Lieutenant C. B. Bly, an officer of thorough accomplishments. Our Infantry will have to work hard to keep pace with the Artillery.

Of Cavalry, we have two troops; one of these answers to company "E," Louisville Legion. This is an unfortunate combination in many respects; in the first place, the Cavalry drill cannot be assimilated to that of Infantry, and in this particular case the Cavalry is necessarily affected by the prevailing lethargy and absence of esprit du corps in the Battalion. If severed from this incongruous connection, I think the energy and determination of the commanding officer, together with the aid of the fine material of which the company is made up, would insure success. In the nature of the service, it seems that the discipline and proficiency of Cavalry is best promoted by reporting directly to the Adjutant General. Intermediate authority appears only to retard communication, and to conceal all knowledge of the true condition.

McDowell Guards, Woodlake: First Lieutenant Thos. F. Murphy having been recently elected to captain of this troop, its prospects for improvement are good. The men all own horses, are good horsemen, and are armed with the Spencer carbine and sabre. An effort is being made to erect an armory on ground donated for the purpose by Major H. C. McDowell, for whom the company was named. With proper aid from the presiding judge of the county, as required by the militia law, this armory will be completed, and the company permanently established. The nearness of this troop of Cavalry to Frankfort is a matter of no small importance, as in case of mob violence or protracted rioting it could be assembled with great speed, and the carbine would have a fine effect, morally and physically. I consider this command, therefore, one of the most important in the State.

Active Service.

There has been no active service by the State Guard since my last official report, save the calling out of the McCreary Guards September 16th last, when that company was placed on active duty by special orders at the request of the Sheriff of Franklin county. This was done to enable him to prevent a threatened breach of the peace which, it was alleged, had assumed proportions beyond control of himself or the posse at his command. The company responded with admirable promptness, and at once restored order. That there was no blood shed, and perhaps loss of many innocent lives, was due to the existence and timely use of this military force.

The Militia Law.

That there is not an active militia force in all respects as it should be, is owing in a great degree to neglect on the part of the law-making authority. Under the fundamental law, every male person embraced within the ages of eighteen and forty-five years belongs to the militia, except those who are especially exempted. As under our form of government the people rule, it is well for every man within the military age to recognize that he owes to the State and General Government an obligation for military service, and that resistance to and suppression of lawlessness, and repelling invasion, rests to a large extent upon the militia. From experience and observation, I am convinced that an adequate active militia force cannot be organized and kept up, and a proper military spirit infused into the young men of the State, until the matter is taken in hand by the Legislature. The thing needful to be done is the passage of an act providing for the correct enrollment, by the county assessor, in the several counties, of all persons owing military service under the Constitution, and the levying of a tax of say 50 cents per capita, to be collected and accounted for by the sheriffs. The amount—not being a tax on property—would not be a hardship, and I estimate that it would yield a sum in the aggregate large enough to organize and maintain a force sufficient for all purposes, and one that would insure the unquestioned supremacy of the civil law, and contribute largely to the dignity of the State. Accurately speaking, I would say there ought to be as much as one company in each Congressional District, with a regiment of Infantry, one battery of Artillery, and one troop of Cavalry in the city of Louisville and Jefferson county. I estimate an adequate active militia force at eight battalions of Infantry, two batteries of Light Artillery, and two troops of Cavalry—say two brigades of four battalions, one battery, and one troop of Cavalry each.

In one of the Eastern States, where the militia has been brought to a high degree of perfection, and where life and property are most securely protected, the militia tax is $2 per capita. In others it is less, and in one State an ad valorem tax is laid on all property for military purposes. It is not practicable to arm and train as soldiers the whole body of the militia, nor is it necessary to do so, owing to the vastness of the population which is continually increasing. This very fact, however, makes it all the more necessary that there should be a force adequate for the ordinary purposes of a State government, and as a nucleus in time of need. It is said "the best way to prevent war is to be prepared for it." What we need is to prepare to keep the peace. To do this, we must place the militia on a footing to meet the demands of modern civilization.

Arms and Equipments.

The State Guard is armed exclusively with the Springfield breech-loading rifle, calibre 50. It has given entire satisfaction, and would, no doubt, be found sufficient to meet any demand which might be made upon it, if continued in use. A rifle of smaller calibre has been adopted for the regular army, so that the 50 calibre will, at no distant day, become to some extent obsolete; with this belief, and recognizing the superiority of the new rifle, and also with a view to keep as near as may be to the regulation standards both in arms and ammunition, 500 stand of the latter have been ordered and lately received. Of these, none have been issued so far, but it is my purpose to exchange them for those now in hands of the State Guard at convenience.

We have also received recently one thousand sets of Infantry equipments, manufactured by the United States Ordnance Department, expressly for the State, and charged to our ordnance account. The sets consist of blanket-bag—same as knapsack—and straps, haversack and strap, canteen and strap, waist-belt and plate, bayonet scabbard, with proper attachment, and cartridge-box. They are very complete, and well adapted for actual service or parades.

Ordnance Account with the United States.

The State of Kentucky is entitled, under the laws of Congress, to $5,757 42 annually for arming the militia. This fund is issued in ordnance and ordnance stores on the Governor's requisition. There is now to the credit of the State the sum of $3,520 49.

Office Duties.

Since the first of October, 1879, when the Adjutant General became by law ex-officio Inspector General and Quarter-Master General, the duties of the office have required constant and laborious attention. The furnishing of transcripts and certificates of military service in the war of 1812-'14 and the late war, together with official correspondence incidental thereto, consumes nearly the entire time of one clerk. This division of the office has been discharged in an intelligent and satisfactory manner by Major James Blackburn, jr., Assistant Adjutant General, who has also done a large amount of other official duties.

The State War Claim.

Since my last official report, considerable progress has been made towards a final settlement and recovery from the United States of the money expended by the State in aiding to carry on the war against the Southern Confederacy. Capt. Phil. Thompson, who was on the Committee on War Claims in the last Congress, at my request, undertook to get an amendment to an act which had been passed on the 8th of June, 1872, purporting to be an act to fully settle with the State for war expenses in behalf of the Union. Said act, however, was defective, as under it certain claims, though well-proven, were held to be inadmissible—say forage, fuel, and transportation of troops and stores. By industry and energy, Capt. Thompson succeeded in pressing his bill to its passage on the last day of the session, and then hurrying with it to the Senate, Mr. Beck, in the very last moment, managed and pressed it through, and it became a law.

The following is the text of the act :

"An act to declare the true intent and meaning of 'An act to reimburse the State of Kentucky for moneys expended for the United States in enrolling, subsisting, clothing, supplying, arming, equipping, paying, and transporting militia forces to aid in suppressing the rebellion,' approved June 8th, 1872."

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled, That in adjusting the claim of the State of Kentucky, the term 'equipment' shall be construed to mean and include the arming of said forces as an essential part of their equipments, and the word 'supplying' shall include forage and fuel, and the transportation shall be embraced as indicated in the title of the act, it being the intention of Congress in the passage of said act to settle and adjust said accounts."

Approved March 3, 1881.

Before any steps were taken for a settlement under this act, the Third Auditor of the Treasury Department required the State to re-state the claims embraced. By the 7th day of July last, I transmitted a book explaining the disallowed vouchers for forage, fuel, and transportation, amounting in the aggregate to $85,424 64½ cents. The proper officer agreed to take it up, and report the amount allowed to the next Congress, that the necessary appropriation may be made for its payment.

The Military Fund.

By the 35th section of the present militia law, $10,000 a year is appropriated for organizing, uniforming, equipping, and training the State Guard. This fund is only available, however, from collections on the war claim against the United States. No collection has been realized for the present year, and having exhausted all that was on hand from former collections, we have been without funds for military purposes. As I understand the act, all collections after its passage are appropriated for the use of the State Guard; and if the annual allowance is not used, from any cause, it goes forward to the next year.

The State Guard Uniform.

When the act providing that the Governor might prescribe a regulation uniform for the State Guard was enacted, a number of companies and one Battalion existed and were then uniformed, each after its own taste. This, together with a lack of funds to uniform new organizations, has deferred any authoritative action in the matter. By general order of the current series a uniform is now prescribed, which will take the place of the several diverse patterns and styles now in use; and give to our military establishment much more uniformity and distinctness of character.

Records of the War of 1812-14.

It has been heretofore officially reported from this office that the muster-rolls of the war of 1812-14 are so worn and mutilated by frequent handling, and the effect of time, as to be, in many instances, almost illegible. To supply those entitled to them with copies and transcripts, these rolls are constantly in use, and in a short time must become entirely untrustworthy. I respectfully recommend that the Legislature make an appropriation sufficient to pay the additional clerk hire to have them transcribed. I think, $500 enough to have the work done in a complete and enduring form. A record of these brave sons of Kentucky is a roll of honor, and I respectfully submit that their names should not go into oblivion from mere neglect and misapplied economy.

The Yorktown Celebration.

The surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown, Virginia, on the 19th day of October, 1781, was practically the end of the war for the separation of the American Colonies from Great Britain, and hence, a celebration of the great event one hundred years thereafter was looked to with much interest. Kentucky was not one of the thirteen Colonies, it is true, but she was ushered into existence very soon after, and was the first born of the Old Dominion. The history of that great State is a part of our history; her achievements and misfortunes are common property, and are shared by us as by an elder daughter. It was but natural, therefore, that the desire to present our State, with becoming reverence, on an occasion so honorable to our grand old ancestor, should be universal. So far as I was informed, it was not only conceded on all hands that Kentucky ought to send a proper military representation, but that it would be a misfortune and an act of self-abasement not to do so.

Without funds for the purpose of paying the expense, and, in fact, without any funds whatever, it was a discouraging thing to undertake to organize, equip, subsist, and transport a military force to Yorktown and return. The task, however, was undertaken, and the result successful beyond my expectations, and you were enabled to furnish one battalion of Infantry, and with it to take part in the ceremonies. In the first place, the problem of transportation was solved by the liberality of all the Railroad Companies over which lines we needed to carry the troops, and then in the next place the men of the several companies composing the battalion advanced the money to pay for their rations. For the State it was agreed to pay the transportation, and refund the money for the rations whenever the Governor is prepared with funds sufficient to do so. The entire cost of the expedition is as follows:

| Transportation . . . . .                    | $5,043 03        |
| Per diem allowance for rations . . . . .    | 2,200 00          |
| Military band with 14 instruments . . . . . | 500 00            |
| Camp equipage . . . . .                     | 190 00            |
| Total . . . . .                             | $7,933 03 |

To the generosity of the several railroad companies we are indebted for the smallness of the obligations thus incurred, and I here return acknowledgment for exceeding kindness and many acts of liberality to Gen. Jno. Echols, Vice President, and Mr. H. W. Fuller, General Passenger Agent of the Lexington, Big Sandy and Chesapeake and Ohio; Gen. E. B. Alexander, Vice President, and Cols. Rowland and Atmore, General Superintendent and General Passenger Agent, Louisville and Nashville; Messrs Wm. H. Mahl and S. S. Parker, General Superintendent and General Passenger Agent L. C. & L.; Mr. J. C. Ernst, General Passenger and Ticket Agent Kentucky Central, and all officers of said roads with whom we came in contact; and, although last named, the not less appreciated compliment of Col. R. S. Bevier, President of the Owensboro and Nashville Railroad to the Monarch Rifles, in conveying them over his road from Owensboro to Owensboro Junction and return, without any charge whatever.

The Battalion assembled at Lexington, Kentucky, on the morning of October 14th ult., and was composed as follows: Three companies of the 3d Battalion K. S. G., viz: Lexington Guards, Mason County Guards, and McCreary Guards; and the following, which were temporarily assigned: Bowling Green Guards, Monarch Rifles, and the 1st platoon Louisville Light Artillery, together with Wolfe and Trost's cornet band—Major Jno. R. Allen commanding; total, 220 officers and men. I would like to furnish herewith a roll of the Battalion as composed, but have not been yet supplied with the necessary returns. There was not an accident of any serious nature, and no sickness in the command, except that, for the first day or two in camp, change of water and of diet produced some disorders. Take it altogether, the trip was a complete success, and will long be associated with pleasant recollections.

For the want of preparation, and the means necessary therefor, the display on the part of the State was not such as might have been desirable. The Governor and general staff, and the field and staff, were not mounted, and the State headquarters was not a fitting representation of a great Commonwealth, as were those of States enjoying liberal military appropriations. Nothing, however, could exceed the conduct of our men, who, although laboring under the disadvantages of an incomplete organization, and subjected to some inconveniences and discomforts, were not, collectively or individually, so far as I observed, guilty of an unsoldierly act. Indeed, their conduct was such as to reflect credit upon their organization and State, and I cannot in language too strong commend them.

I acknowledge with pleasure the highest obligations to Cols. R. H. Wildberger and P. P. Johnston, Assistant Inspectors General, Major James Blackburn, Jr., Assistant Adjutant General, and Captain Henry McHenry, Aid-de-Camp, for their intelligent and efficient assistance. Whatever success attended the administration of executive duties, is due largely to their capacity and prudence.

The department of the field and staff and line was in general most praiseworthy, exhibiting intelligence, capacity, and eminent fitness for their several positions—in most instances, a very high degree of accomplishment. That there were some actions on the part of officers not conducive to good order and military discipline, I cannot deny; but it must be said in extenuation that habits of self-denial and obedience can only be acquired by experience, and that the circumstances were novel, and more or less trying.

I think that there can be no doubt that, altogether, the expedition will result in good, not only to the State Guard, but to the State at large.

There were assembled, as at a great inter-State encampment, many famous military associations, showing the ease with which the citizen is made a soldier and the aptitude of the States, as such, for organizing and maintaining military forces. Here was the Regular Army and the State militia in contrast, without disparagement to the latter. There is a sort of Freemasonry in military life, and the uniform is a passport. Men from the north and east, and those from south of Mason and Dixon's line, were camped side by side; and from meeting as strangers, and, perhaps, not free from mutual prejudices, became fast friends, and parted with the kindest feelings. So far as I observed, much good feeling was cultivated, and friendships formed that will tend to dissipate sectional prejudices, and unite those once estranged. It was a curious thing to hear, on this historic ground, so often pressed by the tread of contending armies, and shaken by the roar of cannon, the measured "huzza" of the North, and the wild "rebel yell" of the South in friendly emulation, and reminding one of the time when these characteristic demonstrations were here hurled from hostile parapet and line of battle; indicating nationality as clearly as the flag or the uniform. By order of General Hancock, each State was responsible for guarding and policing its own grounds, and for the discipline of its camp. This admirable arrangement gave complete satisfaction to all concerned, and served again to illustrate the conservative principles and sound discretion of the great commander, who is distinguished alike as a soldier, and for his regard for the States and liberties of the people.

Inspections.

My report as Inspector General will be found appended. I could not visit all the separate commands within the time which I had prescribed, because of the necessity to prepare a statement of a portion of the "War Claim" for the accounting officers of the Treasury Department.

The Adjutant General is, under the law, inspector of arms, arsenals, and magazines; and I will take occasion here to call attention to the condition of the State Arsenal. Many years have passed since its erection, and it is now much in need of some repairs. As the repository of the State's arms and ordnance stores of various kinds, it should be kept in good repair, with a view to their preservation and safety. It is in need of roofing, windows, flooring, some under-pinning, and painting. The cisterns, pumps, and the coal-house need repairing. I estimate that five hundred dollars will be sufficient. Further delay will result in serious injury to the building and property therein stored.

Appendices.

Returns of arms, ordnance, and ordnance stores, and other exhibits, will be found in detail appended.

I have to thank your Excellency for uniform kindness, and the generous confidence given in all matters pertaining to my office, and also for your attention to all such official matters as I have from time to time laid before you.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

J. P. NUCKOLS,

Adjutant-General.

REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR GENERAL.

INSPECTOR GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
FRANKFORT, KENTUCKY, October 31st, 1881. }

To the HONORABLE LUKE P. BLACKBURN, Governor and Commander-in-Chief:

SIR: I have the honor to report, that, in compliance with law and general orders from the Adjutant General's office, I have inspected the several commands composing the Kentucky State Guard. On the 22d day of February last, I inspected the first battalion known as the Louisville Legion. It is composed of four companies of Infantry, one of Cadets so called, and one troop of Cavalry, commanded by Major J. B. Castleman. The inspection was preceded by a review. The battalion was not properly formed for inspection, being in column of platoons, and not in column of companies (Upton's Infantry Tactics, 816; Army Regulations, 307), companies in single rank without file-closers. The arms and accoutrements were in good condition, as compared with inspection a year ago. The improvement was quite apparent and satisfactory. On the other hand, the attendance was not good. Of a total of 332, there were present 177 officers and men, including the field and staff. The members composing the companies A, B, C, and D appear to have lost much of their former interest, and to have become a prey to indifference and apathy. Company E is a misplaced troop of Cavalry, and though composed of good material, and commanded by a competent officer it cannot, in my opinion, succeed unless detached from the battalion formation. Spencer carbines have been issued, but on this occasion the men were armed only with sabres. The attendance was meager, showing two officers and eighteen men from a total of forty-five.

Company F is composed of boys under 18 years of age, attached to the Battalion under authority of a special act of the Legislature, which provides that they shall not be liable to do any duty whatever except for instruction. They are well drilled, and appear to possess some degree of military enthusiasm. The company is armed with the Cadet Springfield rifle, which would seem to be appropriate, and altogether sufficient for purposes of instruction. The object of the organization purports to be for the purpose of qualifying these young men to join the State Guard when they attain the required age. Generally this would seem to be superfluous, as a military education has not been made one of the requisite qualifications to admission into the State Guard. Nevertheless, it is well to encourage and foster the military germ, with the hope that it may extend and expand into practical life. The indications are, however, that it will not recruit the State Guard to a large extent, as no one has yet been transferred, although many of them have attained the required age.

Louisville Light Artillery, at the same time and place; present the First Platoon, commanded by 1st Lieutenant T. S. Evans, and twenty-nine men. The Battery completely equipped, except as to a Battery wagon and forge, which, in the ordinary State service, can well be dispensed with; and has four six-pound steel rifle guns, which are handled with admirable precision. The equipments are of good quality and well preserved. Given equal advantages, and this Artillery company will sustain itself with any arm of the service, and with any body of troops.

MONARCH RIFLES, OWENSBORO MAY 3D.

This is a new company in the State Guard, organized October 16th, 1881. It is composed of first-class young men, and is well officered. Captain Ford, who is himself an experienced soldier, has, in the short space of time since the organization, reduced his company to a satisfactory state of discipline. The uniform is showy, attractive, and adapted to parade or service. Of forty-two on the muster-roll, thirty-six were present for inspection; six absent. It is seldom that a volunteer company can turn out so large a percentage. The arms were in good condition, the accoutrements well-fitting, and neatly worn. The armory is not such as this company should have, considering its location in one of the most prosperous cities in the State. This is not the result of illiberality on the part of the county judge, as I understand, but simply because there is no suitable building in the city which can be had for the purpose. I hope this difficulty may be overcome at no distant day.

BOWLING GREEN GUARDS, MAY 5TH.

This company is not easily excelled in any respect; out of fifty-six members, forty-eight were present; eight absent. Arms in good condition, accoutrements in like condition, and neatly worn. The uniform is stylish and showy. The armory is large and commodious, and the arms and equipments well preserved. Captain Crump is a thoroughly accomplished officer, with well instructed Lieutenants, and for personnel the company is unsurpassed.

MASON COUNTY GUARDS, MAYSVILLE, MAY 10TH.

Attendance about 50 per cent. Arms in bad condition, with evident want of instruction on the part of officers and men. With proper instruction and encouragement, the company should be made a good and reliable one. It needs to be visited and drilled by the battalion commander, who might at the same time instruct the officers in their rudimentary duties, which is much needed. The accoutrements and equipments I found well preserved.

LEXINGTON GUARD, LEXINGTON, MAY 16TH.

Present for inspection thirty-six, out of fifty-four total. Arms in excellent condition, showing careful and intelligent handling. Accoutrements showing care and attention. The armory is large, attractive, and well suited for inspection and military instruction. The company is handsomely uniformed, and is composed of first class young men. Officers well instructed.

BLACKBURN GUARDS, MIDWAY, MAY 20th.

The company, so far as the members were present, showed to good advantage. Midway is in one of the most favored portions of the State, and the young men are not surpassed physically, morally, or intellectually by those of any other locality. The arms were in bad condition, which is attributable to the officers more than to neglect on the part of the men. The uniform handsome and becoming and with proper attention, on the part of the commanding officer, this Company would be one of the best in the State Guard.

McCREARY GUARDS, FRANKFORT SEPTEMBER 13TH.

This company, which has seen more active service than any other in the State Guard, had just completed a new organization by re-enlisting for another term of three years. It had also been furnished by the citizens of Frankfort with a complete uniform of the regulation standard. Arms in bad condition from neglect, and for the want of a proper armory. The county judge having recently supplied this company with a suitable armory, as the law requires him to do, if properly managed it will become one of the best in the State Guard. Equipments are new, and complete in every particular, and the Company, including officers and men, showed to good advantage.

The accompanying table will show the present and absent of each command inspected, and the percentage of attendance :

| FIRST BATTALION.           | PRESENT.  |      | Absent. | Present and absent. | Percentage of enlisted men present. | Condition of arms. | REMARKS.  |
