Kentucky Air and Army National Guardsmen assigned to Kentucky's Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear and High Yield Explosive (CBRNE) Enhanced Response Force Package (CERFP) received a "T" rating, trained in 16 collective tasks required to validate a CERFP mission, upon completion of their initial certification Exercise Evaluation May 24 at the Muscatatuck Urban Training Center in Butlerville, Indiana. Evaluators said the CERFP "shattered all CERFP records" and had multiple best practices that would be taught to all CERFPs nationwide. Records were set in site set up, decontamination throughput, search operations and medical set-ups and treatment throughput. The CERFP is a joint-effort between Airmen from the Kentucky Air National Guard and Army Guardsmen from the 301st Chemical Company, Morehead; 299th Chemical Company, Maysville; and 103rd Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, Richmond. The CERFP is a high-speed team that must be ready to deploy within six hours of a CBRNE attack, with a mission to locate and extract victims, perform mass patient or casualty decontamination and treat and stabilize patients for evacuation. The team was validated on its ability to perform those tasks by Observer Controller Trainers from the Joint InterAgency Training and Education Center in St. Albans, WV, which provides Homeland Security training to Department of Defense (DoD) assets.

The 123d Fatality Search and Recovery Team (FSRT) successfully demonstrated its mission capabilities during Exercise Patriot 12 in July 2012, supporting 1,100 military and civilian emergency responders at Volk Field, Wisconsin simulating a national response to a major earthquake. The team shared its expertise with a new FSRT assigned to the Indiana

National Guard, training them in all aspects of the mission while also integrating operations with FSRTs from two other participating states.

The 123d Operations Group sustained through much of the fiscal year its dedicated support to the U.S. Air Force Air Mobility Command Tactical Airlift Control Center (TACC) with one aircraft and two aircrews to fly worldwide airlift, disaster response, aeromedical and VIP support missions whenever tasked. In addition, 24 personnel from the 123d Operations Group supported Pacific Command with two C-130H aircraft, two air crews and support personnel for airdrop training exercise Cope South in Dhaka, Bangladesh in April.

Joshua Shelby, a loadmaster in the Kentucky Air National Guard, shares his knowledge of heavy equipment airdrop procedures with an audience of more than 20 Bangladesh Air Force Airmen at Kurmitola Air Base, Bangladesh, on April 22, 2012. The briefing is part of Cope South, a six-day exercise where participants are scheduled to conduct cooperative flight operations, including aircraft generation and recovery, low-level navigation, tactical airdrop and air-land missions. They also will conduct subject-matter expert exchanges in the operations, maintenance and rigging disciplines. (U.S. Air Force photo by 1st Lt. Cammie Quinn)

The 123d Explosive Ordnance Disposal unit of the 123d Civil Engineer Squadron continued to be fully engaged at home and abroad. Members deployed for combat support operations in Iraq and Afghanistan and assisted Indiana and Kentucky state police bomb squads with proficiency training and IED tactics.

Col. Barry Gorter, Commander, 123d Operations Group, deployed from July-November 2012 as the Deputy Director of Mobility Forces for U.S. Air Forces Central Command.

Col. Neal Mullaney completed an 18-month tour, including a one-year deployment, as Commander of the third joint Kentucky Army and Air National Guard Agribusiness Development Team (ADT). Col. Mullaney is the first Air National Guard ADT Commander, one of 10 ADT Airmen who deployed to Afghanistan in April 2011. Lt. Col. Dallas Kratzer, Military Personnel Management Officer for the Headquarters KyANG, was selected as Deputy Commander of ADT IV, which deploys to Afghanistan in December 2012.

Lt. Col. Matthew Stone, 123d Mission Support Group Deputy Commander, completed a six-month deployment as Deputy Commander, 466th Air Expeditionary Group in Kabul, Afghanistan, maintaining responsibility for oversight of 3,000 Joint Expeditionary Tasked Airmen assigned to 154 Army Tactical Control commanders.

Maj. Katrina Kerberg, 123d Airlift Wing Installation Deployment Officer, completed a 6-month deployment to Combined Joint Task Force-Horn of Africa (CJTF-HOA) as Chief of the Joint Logistics Operations Center (JLOC). The CJTF-HOA mission is to conduct operations in the Combined Joint Operations Area (CJOA) to enhance partner nation capacity, promote regional stability, prevent conflict, and protect US and coalition interests.

Awards and Recognition:

The 123d Airlift Wing received its record-tying 15th Air Force Outstanding Unit Award in March 2012. The wing is tied with the 193d Special Operations Wing, Pennsylvania ANG, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania; the 349th Air Mobility Wing at Travis AFB, California (Air Force Reserve); and the 116th Air Control Wing at Robbins AFB, Georgia, a joint National Guard-Active Duty unit.

The 123d Special Tactics Squadron received the Meritorious Unit Award for exceptional performance in overseas contingency operations from 2009-2011. Combat Controllers MSgt. Robert Fernandez, MSgt. Aaron May, TSgt. Harley Bobay and TSgt. Jeff Kinlaw were awarded Bronze Star Medals for meritorious achievement by Lt. Gen. Eric Fiel, Commander of Air Force Special Operations Command, earned while deployed to Afghanistan in support of Operation ENDURING FREEDOM from November 2011 to May 2012. In addition, TSgt. Bryan Hunt was presented the Combat Action Medal and Purple Heart Medal. In the past three years alone, 123d STS Airmen were deployed overseas for more than 4,600 days, conducting over 950 ground-combat missions and 10,000 hours of Combat Search and Rescue operations credited with saving more than 50 personnel.

Eight 123rd Special Tactics Squadron Combat Controllers received numerous military decorations at the Kentucky Air National Guard Base in Louisville, Ky. on June 28, 2012. The combat controllers are flanked by and were presented the decorations by Lt. Gen. Eric Fiel, commander of the U.S. Air Force Special Operations Command and the Adjutant General of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, Maj. Gen. Edward W. Tonini. (U.S. Air Force photo by Master Sgt. Phil Speck)

Lt. Col. David Mounkes, 123d Contingency Response Group, and Lt. Col. George Tomica, 123d Maintenance Group, completed Air War College; Maj. Steve Campbell, 165th

Airlift Squadron, completed Air Command and Staff College (ACSC); and Capt. John Hourigan, 165th Airlift Squadron, completed Squadron Officer School, all in residence at Maxwell AFB.

SMSgt. Scott Andrews and MSgt. Aileen Tucker completed the Senior NCO Academy. MSgt. Aaron Foote and TSgts. Larry Abney, Baron Bodner, Darryl Brown, Kristin Kelly, Reid Morris, Natasha Perry, Christopher Ray and Alan Smith completed the NCO Academy. SSgts. Travis Carpenter, Stephen Hart, Anthony Hayden, Dakota Puckett and Braden Sikkema graduated from the Airman Leadership School. The wing had 16 Community College of the Air Force (CCAF) graduates in FY12.

Lt. Col. Todd Lally earned the 2011 Air National Guard Individual Flight Safety Award. The award is given annually to the top safety professional in the Air National Guard. He was specifically cited for participating in the on-site investigation and Safety Investigation Board of a Class A mishap involving the collision of a Remotely Piloted Aircraft with a C-130H aircraft at a Forward Operating Base in Afghanistan. According to ANG Director of Safety Col. John Slocum, Lt. Col. Lally's "far-reaching contributions in leading various Safety Investigation Boards has helped improve procedural operations across the Air Force." Lt. Col. Lally currently serves as the Chief of Safety for the 123d Airlift Wing.

TSgt. John Hoagland, Headquarters, Kentucky Air National Guard, was named Distinguished Graduate from the Air Force Personnel Apprentice Course at the 81st Training Wing, Keesler AFB, MS, graduating in the top 10 percent of his class with a 98 percent academic average.

The 123d Airlift Wing Public Affairs team successfully transitioned from monthly to weekly production of most news products and "same-day" production of breaking news coverage despite extremely limited staffing, resulting in the production of 102 news articles, more than 13,000 photos and 12 hours of video focusing timely national attention on the 123rd Airlift Wing and its role in supporting operations all around the world. Wing-produced content was picked up by multiple national media outlets on a regular basis, including Air Force Times, National Guard magazine, National Guard Today magazine, Emergency Management magazine, the NGB web site, the Air Force Web site and "Air Force Week in Photos," a showcase of the best photography in the USAF. The Public Affairs Team continued to set national benchmarks of excellence as Maj. Dale Greer won two first-place awards and two second-place awards in the 2011 National Guard Bureau Media Contest (for a news story and photo package on the wing's response to Hurricane Irene; a photo essay on the wing's support of citywide Veterans Day events; and news and feature photos documenting the wing's support of Louisville 9/11 remembrance ceremonies) while MSgt. Phil Speck won an honorable mention for his environmental portrait of a wing airman.

Distinguished Visitor Support – During FY2012 the 123 AW hosted Senator Mitch McConnell, the Senate Minority Leader; the Commanding General, Air Mobility Command (Gen. Raymond Johns); the Commanding General, Air Force Special Operations Command (Lt. Gen. Eric Fiel); the Director of the Air National Guard (Lt. Gen. Harry "Bud" Wyatt); the Special Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs and Senior Director for Resilience Policy (Hon. Richard Reed); and the Command Chief Master Sergeant of the Air National Guard (CMSgt. Chris Muncy) for installation visits.

Economic Impact:

The Kentucky Air National Guard means much more to the Commonwealth than its vital roles in responding to disasters and defending our nation's interests. The KyANG is a major employer and an important consumer within Kentucky. The total KyANG Budget, federal and state combined, for fiscal year 2012 was $80M. Our 393 full-time Civilian Technicians, State Employees, and Active Guard Reserve (AGR) personnel were paid $31M in wages during FY12. Military pay for the traditional "part-time" Guard members was $23M. The total economic impact on the community, based on the Standard Economic Resource Impact Summary formula exceeds $200,000,000.

Civic/Community Involvement:

Individuals and units of the Kentucky Air National Guard continue to be active and concerned members of their communities. The community's awareness and appreciation of the work of the Kentucky Air National Guard is very high.

The wing once again hosted all of the aircraft and crews that flew in the Thunder Over Louisville air show, which is the opening event of the annual Kentucky Derby Festival. Unit members ensured that the event continues to be one of the finest air shows in the nation. This year's event featured the 100th anniversary of Marine Corps aviation, with all past and present Marine Corps aircraft represented. The idea for the Marine Corps theme was generated by Capt. James J. "Josh" Josh Ketterer, a pilot with the 165th Airlift Squadron, and adopted with gusto by the Marine Corps Coordinating Council of Kentucky.

The inaugural presentation of the CMSgt. Tommy Downs Award for Excellence was bestowed on the top graduate of the 2012 Logistics Readiness University during a ceremony in Savannah, Georgia, in June. The award, presented to Senior Airman Nathan Rogers of the Wisconsin Air Guard, is named in honor of former 123rd Airlift Wing Command CMSgt. Thomas Downs, who passed away in 2009 due to complications from pancreatitis after more than three decades of service in the Kentucky Air National Guard. Chief Downs was instrumental in establishing the school in 2004. Chief Downs' wife, Janet, and his daughters Whitney and Abby, came to Savannah to present the award to Rogers, a stand-out aerial port specialist from the 128th Air Refueling Wing. Chief Downs, who also served as superintendent of the Kentucky Air Guard's 123d Aerial Port Squadron, saw the need in the early 2000s for a cost-effective national training program to provide mission-critical skills to Air National Guard aerial porters. At the time, training through normal active-duty Air Force channels was either unavailable or prohibitively expensive. Located at the Savannah Combat Readiness Training Center, the logistics school was originally called Aerial Port University. When the National Guard Bureau directed the merger of all Air National Guard aerial port squadrons into existing logistics readiness units, the decision was made to expand the curriculum of Aerial Port University and allow all logistics career fields to participate. In its first year of operations, 189 students took classes at the school. This year, 824 students from across the Air Guard completed a four-week curriculum covering such topics as hazardous material inspection and preparation, vehicle operations, and inventory and equipment management. That training has been provided at a huge cost savings to the Air Force, estimated at more than $800,000 in 2012 alone. Over the school's nine-year history, the program has saved millions of taxpayer dollars while providing world-class logistics training to thousands of Air National Guardsmen.

The KyANG honor guard continues to increase their presence in the community by performing in ceremonies, flag raisings, funeral presentations and parades. They coordinate with Honor Guard instructors from Wright Patterson AFB to train additional honor guard members due to the increase of statewide requests to perform ceremonies.

The 123d Medical Group hosts annual quarterly blood drives for the American Red Cross. Air Guard members continue to donate time and talent to the March of Dimes, the Salvation Army, Crusade for Children, Toys for Tots, the Ronald McDonald House, the Air Force Assistance Fund, the Black Expo, the Military Order of World Wars “Massing of the Colors” Veterans and Memorial Day Celebrations, and traffic and crowd control at the Kentucky Derby. Air Guard volunteers from the 123d Aerial Port Squadron annually assist with shelters and crowd control at the Special Olympics "Polar Bear Plunge" in the Ohio River in February. Medical Group members provide medical screening for several hundred potential Kentucky National Guard Youth Challenge cadets, ages 15-19, at Fort Knox as they register for the program in January and July of each year.

The KyANG Airmen and Family Readiness Program, led by Mr. Dave Rooney, continues to provide exceptional support to the families of the KyANG throughout the Commonwealth. During this period they hosted several events. Their annual family day was attended and supported by over 1,300 military and family members. This event included local service agencies providing information and resources to the entire Air National Guard military community. Additionally, this program provided a day of relaxation, fun and games, to the youth and families of our valued guardsmen. The group also hosted annual Children's Holiday and Easter parties for our youth, which has greatly enhanced the morale of our family members. On a day to day basis, the family support office has provided hundreds of outreach services and referral actions to the entire military community. During the summer 2012 AEF deployment rotation, family support provided emergency outreach services, on numerous occasions, to the families of deployed service members worldwide. This effort allows our military members to focus on their missions while deployed. Mr. Rooney's program includes six core unpaid volunteers, and over 30 community contributors comprising the Key Volunteer Group. The group's sole mission is to support military families by providing education, assistance, and moral support, during both deployment and non-deployment times, and annual special events. During this period Mr. Rooney was elected by peers to serve as the Region IV Primary Representative to the National Guard Bureau Family Programs office, which advises leadership on trends in service to our customer, locally and nationwide.

Family members of Kentucky Air Guardsmen exit the 123rd Airlift Wing's Mini C-130 after an orientation “flight” Oct. 23, 2011, during the wing's annual Family Day celebration in Louisville, Ky. The Mini C-130 is a scale replica of the Hercules transport aircraft, built on a golf-cart chassis and propelled by a 27-horsepower gasoline motor. Although incapable of flight, it can reach speeds of up to 20 mph, features working propellers, a functional cargo door, a UHF radio, a high-powered stereo system and seating for up to a dozen passengers. The replica was built from scratch by the Airmen of the Kentucky Air Guard's 123rd Maintenance Squadron. (U.S. Air Force by Maj. Dale Greer)

The KyANG hosted a Kentucky Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve (ESGR) “Bosslift” for over 30 employers on 8 June, flying the group from Louisville to Scott AFB, Illinois for visits to the Louisville ANG Base and the headquarters of the U.S. Air Mobility Command (AMC) and U.S. Transportation Command. The group also toured the AMC Tanker Airlift Control Center (TACC), the “nerve center” for worldwide airlift, aerial refueling and aeromedical evacuation operations.

The 123d Airlift Wing held its third annual Fitness Challenge competition in October 2011, with approximately 100 Airmen competing in four-person teams tested on their ability to complete a circuit of 80 sit-ups, 40 push-ups and a 1.5 mile relay race. The 123d Special Tactics Squadron team set a course record of 9:00 minutes even, edging out the 123d Security Forces Squadron.

Kentucky Air National Guardsmen compete in the 123rd Airlift Wing Fitness Challenge at the Kentucky Air National Guard Base in Louisville, Ky. The challenge tested the ability of teams from across the base to complete a timed circuit comprised of a 1.5-mile relay race, 80 pushups and 40 sit-ups.

Safety officials from the 123 AW Safety Office hosted an 8-day Motorcycle Safety Trainer-the-Trainer Course in August taught by an instructor from the National Motorcycle Safety Foundation, drawing over 20 students from the Kentucky Air and Army National Guard. The course was initiated and funded by the National Guard Bureau and included four days of classroom instruction and four days of hands-on training with students from the Kentucky National Guard.

Safety officials across the Kentucky National Guard are now better prepared than ever to reduce motorcycle accidents, thanks to a motorcycle safety train-the-trainer course conducted at the Kentucky Air National Guard Base from Aug. 20-27.

Lt. Col. George Imorde, Commander, 123d Force Support Squadron, served as elected vice president for Air, National Guard Association of Kentucky.

Col. Steve Bullard, Commander, 123d Mission Support Group, was elected to a fifth term as president of the Louisville Armed Forces Committee and served for his 19th consecutive year as program and dinner chairman for the Committee and its annual Louisville Armed Forces Dinner, the nation’s longest running Armed Forces Dinner (since 1919). The committee hosted Lt. Gen. Harry M. “Bud” Wyatt, Director, Air National Guard, for its dinner speaker at The Crowne Plaza Hotel in Louisville and drew 500 attendees.

A group of Kentucky Air National Guardsmen came together to sponsor and field an indoor and outdoor professional football team called the “Kentucky Xtreme.” The Majority Owner, General Manager and Coach is SSgt. Victor Cole, a maintenance analyst for the 123d Maintenance Operations Flight and former Kentucky State University and minor league football player. SSgt. Cole was joined in the effort by Dave Rooney, manager of the wing’s Airmen and Family Readiness Program, who serves as the Offensive Coordinator. Other Co-Owners include CMSgt. Vic Dry, 123d Communications Flight Maintenance Chief; SSgt. Aaron McGahee, Fire Team Member for the 123d Contingency Response Group; and TSgt. Terrance Jones, Crew Chief with the 123d Aircraft Maintenance Squadron. The indoor team is a professional Arena Football squad competing in the Continental Indoor Football League, with its home Freedom Hall in Louisville. The team will begin its first indoor season in February 2012. Its website is kentuckyxtreme.com. The outdoor team is part of the Interstate Football League, a minor league group composed of teams from Indiana, Michigan and Kentucky.

Heard was the first Air Force Physician Assistant to complete the United States Army Flight Surgeons course in 1995, the first to complete the "Top Knife" program in Klamath Falls, Ore., and the first to be promoted to the rank of colonel in the Air National Guard. He is a former Air National Guard Outstanding Physician Assistant of the Year.

CMSgt. Curtis Carpenter continues to serve as the wing's Command Chief Master Sergeant. Col. Tom Curry left his position as Chaplain Advisor to the Commander, Air Mobility Command, at Scott Air Force Base, Illinois to become the ANG Chaplain Advisor to the Commander, U.S. Northern Command in the Fall of 2012.

There were 351 Kentucky Air National Guard personnel on deployments during FY2012. Named operations supported include ARDENT SENTRY, BANNER EXPRESS (Presidential Support), CORONET OAK (Central/South America), DEEP FREEZE (Antartica), EAGLE FLAG, ENDURING FREEDOM (Afghanistan), NEW DAWN (Iraq), NOBLE EAGLE, ONWARD LIBERTY (Liberia), PACIFIC ANGEL (Humanitarian Support- Phonsavahn, Laos), SILVER FLAG, TERMINAL FURY and VIGILANT SHIELD.

In Memoriam: Maj. Gen. Philip P. Ardery

Maj. Gen. Philip P. Ardery, first commander of the Kentucky Air National Guard (1947), passed away at the age of 98 on July 26, 2012. Called to active duty during the Korean War, Lt. Col. Ardery and the 123d Fighter Wing relocated to England, where Phil served as wing-base commander of the NATO Air Force, RAF Station, in Manston, 1951-52. After deactivation, he continued to command the 123d, which at times included air groups in other states as well as Kentucky's group based at Louisville's Standiford Field. He was promoted to Brigadier General in April 1962 and retired from the military as a Major General in 1965. Capt. Ardery commanded the 564th Bomb Squadron (H) beginning in February 1943, joining the 389th Bomb Group (H) based in Norwich, England, that June. From outposts in North Africa, he flew B-24s on many missions across the Mediterranean, including the first low-level raid on oil refineries at Ploesti, Romania, for which he earned the Silver Star. From England and North Africa, he flew raids over Vegesack, Bayeux, Solingen, and Oslo during the winter of 1943-44, leading up to the invasion of Normandy. He led the 2nd Combat Bomb Wing on the first daylight bombing of Berlin in March 1944 and flew on the first mission of D-Day, June 6, 1944. His memoir of the war, Bomber Pilot, was published in 1978.

A 1935 graduate of the University of Kentucky and a 1938 graduate of Harvard Law School, Ardery practiced law on a solo basis and with numerous partners until co-founding the law firm of Brown, Ardery, Todd & Dudley in June 1959. The firm merged with Brown, Eldred & Bonnie and Marshall, Cochran, Heyburn & Wells in 1972 to form Brown, Todd, & Heyburn, for many years Kentucky's largest law firm.
