dedication ceremonies of the Louisville National Guard Armory.

New Louisville Armory Dedicated During Kentucky State Fair Board, just a few hundred yards north

The number 7 had more than routine significance in the dedication of the new Louisville National Guard Armory Formal dedication ceremonies were held on the afternoon of September 7 -which was "Governors Day" at the Kentucky State Fair-the Armory was the seventh built since the beginning of Governor Bert T. Combs' Administration-and the building is designed as a seven-unit Armory. In his presentation remarks, Major General Arthur Y. Lloyd, Kentucky Adjutant General, noted that as a part of the goal to replace all inadequate facilities now existing, "we expect to place five other new Armories under contract within the next few months."

(In fact, an eighth Armory was dedicated October 28 in Barbourville.) The seventh Armory is on property provided by the Kentucky State Fair ter for Armor. Armory construction began on June of the Kentucky Fair and Exposition The building and area improvement cost a total $423,295 and was constructed by Otho Tapp and Sons of Louisville. Architect was George Keat and Associates of Louisville.

In addition to Governor Combs, the dedication was attended by 3d District Congressman Frank Burke: F. W. Curran, President of the Kentucky State Fair Board: Lieutenant Governor Wilson Wyatt: Jefferson County Judge Marlow Cook, and Brigadier General Evert S. Thomas, Jr., Commanding General of Fort Knox's Training Cen-

5, 1961 and required 13 months to finish the building

Alternate 1963 Training Sites Are Announced Camp Breckinridge, which once swarmed with nearly 40,000 troops, but in recent years has seen only a fraction of that many, is now on the excess list of the Department of The sprawling, 36,000-acre Army reservation stretches over much of three counties - Henderson Union and Webster. One estimate is that Breckinridge costs the Army $800,000 a year just to keep up on a stand-by basis. About one third of the buildings are used now, those for summer field training and they are in fair to good condition. Others, including most of the hospital area, which have not been used since December 1953, are considered to be in fair condition.

Presently, the final disposition of the Reservation is very uncertain. Several City, County and State committees have been formed to express their interest in the facilities. Some of the proposed uses include industrial sites, game preserve, a park area, farming area, a State National Guard camp and others.

Major General Arthur Y. Lloyd. Kentucky's Adjutant General pointed out that the impact area of the artillery ranges, nearly 10,000 acres, probably could never be made safe enough for farming or other use because it would be nearly impossible to remove all the duds which might be found in the area For the most part, a National Guard camp would require about one-third of the barracks and all of the artillery ranges.

Bandsmen Are Made Honorary Citizens of Morganfield The city of Morganfield has "adopted" as honorary citizens some National Guardsmen.

Specifically, the members of the 202d Army Band's Dance Band who played for Morganfield's Sesquicentennial during 1962 summer camp.

Mayor J. Earle Bell promised honorary citizen cards. He said they would not obligate the Band members "to contribute to our tax till," but would show the city's appreciation for "the noble efforts of your men" and for all "the kind things you have said about our community."

WILLIS GETS CERTIFICATE

A Kentucky Air National Guardsman who was top man in a jet mechanics' class of 300 was honored November 18 at Shewmaker Air National Guard Base, Louisville.

A3C Charles L. Willis, 23, of 1610 Texas, Louisville, received an Air Training Command bonor certificate from Colonel Verne M. Yahne, vice commander of the 123rd Tactical Reconnaissance Wing, at a wing formation. Willis ranked first in his class at the Air Force mechanics' school at Amarillo Air Force Base, Texas

Willis joined the Air Guard in March. 1962. In the Air Guard he is an RB-57 mechanic and in civilian life an appliance designer for General Electric.

FIRST IN CLASS

Sergeant Bernard Alsip, Springfield, a member of Service Battery, 4th Howitzer Battalion, 138th Arty, attained the highest academic standing in his class while attending the Infantry Mechanics Course at Fort Benning, Georgia.

In a letter from Brigadier General Royal Reynolds, Jr. the Assistant Commandant of The Infantry Center cited Alsip's seven superior grades out of nine examinations and his average score of 96.6 percent.

USP&FO RATES SUPERIOR

The first superior rating for an annual general inspection ever received by the U. S. Property and Fiscal Officer for Kentucky was awarded this year with a letter and plaque from Major General D. W. McGowan, Chief of the National Guard Bureau. The letter complimented Major Willis R. Hodges, and his staff for their outstanding accomplishments during fiscal year 1962. USP&FO for Kentucky, Major Hodges is accountable for $45,000,000 worth of equipment and in addition his office is accountable for more than $6,000,000 in funds each year.

ARMORY PROVIDES CLASSROOM The National Guard Armory in Mid-dlesboro doubled last September as a center for handicapped children in Bell County. Classes began with five children and a waiting list of 15. The classes started at 9 a.m. and ran until noon on Tuesdays and Thursdays. When Middlesboro's school consolidation is completed, it's expected that a special classroom will be built for handicapped children. OUTSTANDING MAN SELECTED The Non-Commissioned Officers Club of Battery C, 2nd Howitzer Battalion, of Bardstown, chose Roy E. Houck, of High Grove, as the outstanding soldier of the outfit at summer camp at Camp Breckinridge. Houck has been a member of the National Guard since 1957 and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Houck. He is an employe of the James B. Beam Distillery at Clermont. A $5 prize and a certificate of anpreciation from the battery were

THE AG SPEAKS

By Major General A. Y. Lloyo

At the time of this writing two things cause me to have concern insofar as they affect the Kentucky National Guard. Recently many of the AG's from the Eastern half of the United States met with General McGowan. For various reasons, the actual strength of the National Guard has, in recent months, dropped considerably below authorized strength. For example, as of 1 November, the Kentucky Army National Guard was 510 below authorized strength. It is extremely important that recruiting be emphasized during the next couple of months in order that we can reach full strength. This can be accomplished if every man will consider himself as a "recruiter" with the view of trying to bring his unit up to full strength. It is imperative that this be done before Hearings are started in the Armed Services Committees during the next Con-

I am also concerned about the Physical Fitness Program. When President Kennedy launched his program of physical fitness in the schools, he emphasized that the "strength of our democracy is no greater than the collective wellbeing of our people. The vigor of our country is no stronger than the vitality and will of our countrymen.

In results of tests among 200,000 school children, almost half in grades four through twelve failed even the minimum physical achievement tests. Less than 10 per cent reached a satisfactory level.

Another series of tests showed that 58 per cent of Americans failed a fitness test that only 8.7 percent of Europeans failed.

According to General Hershey, Director of Selective Service, out of the some six million young men examined for military duty since October 1948, more than a million have been rejected for physical reasons alone. A substantial number of these rejections were in the preventable category. This means that among those eligible for military (Continued on Page 3)

Thirty-five per cent of those Kentucky Air National Guardsman present at the 26 August 1962 drill donated a pint of blood each to the Red Cross Regional Bloodmobile. Two hundred sixteen pints of blood were collected during the Bloodmobile's visit to Shewmaker ANG Base Louisville.

VEHICLE SAFETY CHECK HELD

Two Kentucky Army National Guardsmen recently had a part in a successful vehicle safety campaign in Glasgow.

June 1-8 was Vehicle Safety-Check week, and CWO Harlan S. Pinkston, Jr., shop chief for OMS No. 9, was chairman of the JayCee committee promoting the campaign. CWO James L. Strange, administrative specialist for the 4th Howitzer Battalion, was secretary for the committee.

Over 1.700 vehicles went through the safety check lane June 1 and 2.

As Americans - and as National Guardsmen - we can understand the urgency for correcting this situation. Guardsmen most people the necessity for maintaining a "ready now" condition. I hope that Kentucky Guardsmen and Guard units will assume some leadership in promoting physical fitness in their local communities. To provide this leadership, it is imnortant that the Guardsmen themselves carry out an effective and constructive personal physical fitness program. You will hear more about this in the future.

Guardsmen Aid In Search for Wrackage

Thirty-two Kentucky Natles-Guardsmen were placed on State ... tive Duty for five days beginning August 7th, to assist in looking for the wreckage of a plane which crashed in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky. They were on duty for a total of five days beginning August 7th. The plane was piloted by Dana Byers and had as passengers; his wife, Thelma and 15 year old daughter, Beverly. The light aircraft had left Knoxville, Tennessee headed for Huntington, W. Va. and the pilot had reported that he was lost, couldn't figure out his location and that he was low on gasoline. This all occurred on July 29th 1962, and State and local police, aided by civilian search parties hadn't found the plane when Guardsmen were mobilized. Captain Charles Hunter and 12 men from Co. A, 1st Medium Tank Bn. 123 Armor were placed on active duty along with 1st Lt. James C. Pence, and 14 men from Co. C, 201st Engineer Bn. Jackson. In addition two Kentucky Army National Guard pilots and two aircraft mechanics were placed into duty with a helicopter, and an L-19 aircraft. These were Capt. Billy M. Hedges, St. Matthews; Capt. David F. Fleming, Flemingsburg; SP5 William H. Canon, Jr., Frankfort, and SP4 Leonard H. Shouse, Simpsonville, State and local Civil Defense officials also aided in the search.

The missing aircraft was found at dusk on August 10th where it had crashed into the side of a mountain near Kite, Kentucky about 16 miles northwest of Hazard. All three members of the Byers family were dead,

Kentucky's Rifle Team Participate In National Matches at Camp Perry

To what was once an induction center, then a prisoner of war camp, went a ten-man team of Kentucky National Guardsmen last August.

When they returned from what is now Camp Perry, between Cleveland and Toledo, Ohio, they brought with them a trophy from the National Rifle Matches. They also participated in an unscheduled fire.

The team won the Sharpshooter Reserve Category Award in the Herrick Trophy Team Match, scoring 501-20 out of a possible 600 points.

Push Wasn't

Roy Push of Salyersville wasn't. He wasn't "push"-ed, that is. Here's what happened:

There was the newly opened Kentucky National Guard Armory on the State Fairgrounds. New buildings have lots of glass. So does the Armory.

Roy was one of the Future Farmers of America members staying in the Armory while the State Fair was on.

There was this plate-glass window. Clear as glass. Roy walked through it.

Forty-five stitches later, Roy went home.

OVERFLOW CROWD-An estimated 1500 persons attended the dedication of the new $216,000 Barbourville National Guard Armory which was dedicated Sunday, October 28, by Governor Bert Combs. An estimated 500 people had to stand at the rear and outside of the building to hear dedication comments over a loudspeaker. The Guard's 202nd Army Band from Ashland, which provided music for an honor Guard and the dedication ceremonies, had to set up outside the building due to the crowded conditions.

Medium Tank Battalion, 123d Armor served as master of ceremonies. The invocation and benediction were given by First Lieutenant Paul G. Blacketor. Dean of Men for Union College,

Barbourville's Mayor Paul Buchanan

A symbolic key to the armory was presented to Lt. Col. Clarence O. Burch of Barbourville, Commanding Officer of Headquarters 1st Medium Tank Battalion, 123rd Armor, which will use the new building.

Poster Companies Display Welcome Home Billboards

Nearly 100 billboards across the State proclaimed "Welcome Home - Kentucky's Own," and the thought was appreciated by Kentucky Guardsmen and Reservist returning from nearly a year of active federal service.

The placement of those billboards was done as a public service by 25 Outdoor Advertising companies located in and around Kentucky. Most of the posters were displayed during the month of August on approach routes an din the hometowns of the returning Guardsmen and Reservists.

One Company, the Bartlett-Queen Poster Service of Owensboro, voluntarily constructed a special billboard at the entrance to the Owensboro National Guard Armory so that no Guardsman would miss the welcome. In addition to the Owensboro com-

Army Guard Pilot Sets Record Flys 2700 Miles in "Chopper"

A Kentucky National Guard helicopter pilot and mechanic who last October completed a 16 day, 3.500 mile belicopter flight made it clear that they have had their share of "chopper" flying. Lt. Colonel John I. Faulkenberry. Frankfort. the pilot, said that the trip was alright, "but I don't want any more of it for a while." The mechanic, Specialist 5, William Harold Canon, Frankfort, was just plain "glad to get back." On their trip, the pair broke previous Army distance records for flying a helicopter from one point to another. On a section of their flight from Stockton, California to Frankfort, they traveled a total of 2,700 miles in 91/2 days. Previous Army records covered only 2.200 miles.

The long flight all began when the Army ordered the Kentucky National Guard to turn over to active Army units, two Bell H-13E helicopters in exchange for two Hiller H-23B helicopters.

One copter exchange was simple; an Army pilot from Fort Hood, Texas delivered a new Hiller model to Frankfort and he flew the Bell model back. The second chopper was the problem. It had to be delivered to Fort Hood and its replacement had to be picked up at Sharp General Depot at Stockton. The entire trip, including a commercial flight from Fort Hood to Stockton, California, took 16 days. They spent 12% days bouncing along in the choppers.

The two were airborne only about 5% hours each day and usually spent two to three hours performing maintenance and getting gasoline. Five hours of flying a helicopter is plenty for any single day, Colonel Faulkenberry pointed out. "You are tense all the time and you can't relax like you can when flying a fixed wing plane," he said, "and in a helicopter, you have to the names bigger than golf balls provided some interesting moments recently is to Denver.

A group of Kentucky National Guard officers flew there to attend the 84th General Conference of the National Guard Association of the United States Sept. 17.

Near Hill City, Kansas-90 minutes away from Lowry AFB in Denver-the twin-engine C-47 ran into what co-pilot Lieutenant-Colonel James Upchurch of Louisville was later to describe as a "terrific hailstorm."

He said the bailstones shattered both windshields, broke the landing lights, tore holes in elevator surfaces and dented the plane's aluminum nose.

The C-47 was then at 7,000 feet altitude and about ten miles southwest of Hill City.

To keep the glass from falling in against Upchurch and pilot Colonel Jack Owen of Cynthiana, SSG James Poole, the crew chief, from Louisville, stood up between the two men, holding two flight jackets against the wind-shields The plane was then able to proceed without difficulty to Lowry AFB where repairs were made.
